

ABSTRACT

A heat transfer member having an external heat transfer member including an insertion hole having an adaptor ring inserted therein, and at least one of a base blocking protrusion and a groove blocking protrusion formed on a predetermined portion of the surface of the base confronting the inserted adaptor ring inside the insertion groove, for increasing the coupling strength of the external radiating member and the adaptor ring and the transition member.